Progressive Halloween Party

Fraught with all the mystery that should surround a Halloween festivity and elaborate as to detail, was the progressive Halloween party given Saturday evening by two of the most popular young girls in the younger set, Miss Florence Hoffman and Miss Katherine Hopper, and those fortunate enough to have received invitations spent a most delightful evening.

Novely was the keynote of the pretty affair and the fact that the scene of the festivity was divided between the homes of the two hostesses lent it at once a characteristic charm. The guests were received at Miss Hopper's home, corner of Kaimukou and Dominis streets and there various festivities appropriate to the festival of All Souls were indulged in. An old witch pinned to a sheet hung upon the wall, presided over slips of paper containing fortunes, and as each blindfolded guest approached the sheet and grasped a fortune all the others held their breath till the fortune of the blindfolded one was revealed.

Then there was a game in which all jumped over lighted candles in order to determine the month in which their marriage is to take place. Bobbing for apples, the time honored custom of Halloween, was not forgotten. Porters for the grand march were chosen by a mysterious method after which the guests proceeded by the Moonlight Express to the hospitable home of Miss Hoffman, on the hill above Kewalo street, where they found the intricate of a cobweb awaiting them. This cobweb wound "up stairs and down stairs and in my lady's chamber," and great cleverness was demanded in the unraveling of the mysterious threads. At the end of each thread save one was a popcorn ball, but one thread there was which terminated in a pot of gold in the form of a book, "My Lady's Slipper," by Cyrus Townsend Brady, which was found by Miss Alice Cooper.

After this cobweb was unwound the merry company played old Dan Tucker, after which the salad course was served. At the conclusion of this all repaired to the home of Miss Hopper, where the ice and confections were served. The souveniers were in the form of tiny Japanese lanterns which were filled with salted almonds.

Both homes were decorated with fragrant scarlet carnations and greenery and light came from gay Japanese lanterns, swinging from the trees and lamps and from wondrous Jack-o'-lanterns, which grinned from out dark corners. Miss Hoffman assisted the young hostesses at the Hocking residence while Miss Hopper assisted at the Hopper home. Those asked to enjoy the hospitality of the delightful evening were: Misses Bonnie Catton, Helen Grevin, Bella McCriston, Violet Danon, Vera Damon, Justine McLanahan, Violet Weedon, Ethel Spalding, Jessie Shaw, Jessie Kennedy, Helen North, Edna Perkins, Alice Hedemann, Makia Magoon, Alice Cooper, Miriam Clark, Alice Hopper, Ethel Bishop, Alice Brown; Messrs. Staff, Stanley Kennedy, Bruce Kennedy, Wallace Cooper, Theodore Cooper, Raymond Smith, Kenneth Brown, Robert Thurston, Will Campbell, Louis Renton, Leslie Clark, Childa, James Wille, James Peterson, Robert Parkinson, Alfred Cooper, Guilford Whitney, Will Lidgate, David Townsend, Harry Hoffmann.

The Coming of Halloween
Halloween, that festival so dear to the heart of small boys with hearts attuned to pranks, so dear to the hearts of maidens attuned to romance, is fast approaching.

This festival offers the motif for many grotesque merry-makings and one does things on this night that one would never think of doing on any other. What girl in her right mind would walk down cellar backward with only a candle for company and expect to see the face of her future husband peering ardently at her from out of the shadows at any other time than on the 31st of October?

There are a great many things to do on Halloween that are warranted to bring results. For instance, if you are a girl and fill your mouth full of water and run around the house three times without swallowing it or opening your mouth the next man there after whom you speak to will be your husband. If you run out to the garden and pull some fresh turnips or carrots, you will be able to tell quite a fortune by the amount of earth adhering to the roots of the vegetables. Walnut shell bolls in which are stuck tiny Christmas tree candles are sometimes set afloat on the surface of a tub of water. The candles are lighted and each one is named. As the little boats float off to sea those that near each other and seem to pair off will eventually marry—or, rather, the people for whose identity they stand will. For a Halloween supper some girls put at each place a little candle and each guest watches her faithfully. The first one to go out designates that the owner of it will be the first bride.

On Halloween night you should fill a glass half full of water, lay your toothbrush across it well balanced and put it under the bed. That night you are supposed to dream and if you dream of crossing a bridge and falling into the river below and in the morning find that the brush has fallen in, it will mean that you will marry the man who rescued you.

On Halloween ghosts are supposed to walk, and if the night is very dark and your eyes are very bright you may be able to see them. All sorts of mysterious things are liable to happen and it is well to be prepared for all emergencies.

A Young Player
Young Miss Florence Macaulay, the 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Archibald Macaulay of Berkeley who with her parents was one of the passengers sailing Saturday on the Doric for the Orient, has won a reputation for her prowess at the shipboard game of shuffleboard on the down trip from San Francisco, and for one point would have tied for the championship with Miss Richard, who won the beautiful prize which was hung up for the woman champion.

"I had a very severe lung trouble and was so weak that I could scarcely walk about or talk. All my friends believed I could never get well. I then began to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and immediately felt an improvement. It took only two bottles to work a complete cure. It certainly saved my life."

This is one of thousands of testimonials to the wonderful value of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral
In cases of colds, coughs, and lung and throat troubles of all kinds. A standard and unrivaled remedy for sixty years. In large and small bottles. Beware of imitation so-called "Genuine Cherry Pectoral." Be sure to get "AYER'S Cherry Pectoral."

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., U.S.A.

At her prowess at the shipboard game of shuffleboard on the down trip from San Francisco, and for one point would have tied for the championship with Miss Richard, who won the beautiful prize which was hung up for the woman champion.

This little maid, who is as demure and modest as a little maid should be known in California and the north country as the heroine of the St. Paul wreck, for she it was who was the life passenger off the wreck into the life boats when the good ship St. Paul went aground between San Francisco and Portland last year, and her fellow passengers on that memorable occasion still speak of the bravery and quick self-possession of the little traveler.

The Macaulays had expected to make the trip to the Orient on the Mongolia but just a year from the time the St. Paul went on the rocks they received word that the Mongolia had gone ashore at Midway and it seems a strange coincidence that this young traveler should have had this experience. Miss Florence has but recently returned from a London boarding school and has been across the Atlantic several times and is now making her first trip to the Orient. She is a good sailor and is a regular little "nut browne upside" from a week's exposure to go in for shuffleboard with renewed vigor and hopes this time to carry off the championship.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Macaulay and daughter were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Corbett at their place on Emma street.

The following item from the Oakland Examiner will be of interest to the friends of Mrs. Rice in this city: "Mrs. Arthur Rice, who was Miss Besse Forrest, will leave next week for her home in Honolulu. Her visit here has been so thoroughly enjoyed by her many friends that they are reluctant to acknowledge that the promised months of its duration have sped away and that the time for the homeward trip is at hand. Mrs. Rice is a great favorite. Remotely during the summer she has been the guest of honor at various charming functions."
